TRICKED IN BALDWIN DEAL, SAYS SCHIFF

Tells of Indignation When Locomotive Co. Sold Plant to Drexel Syndicate.

EXPECTED TO BE BUYER

Other Financiers Witnesses in Robinson Suit for Fee of $500,000.

Jacob Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. described his firm yesterday as the injured party in the sale in 1911 of the Baldwin Locomotive Works to a syndicate headed by Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia and White, Weld & Co. of New York. Mr. Schiff was testifying in the suit for between $500,000 and $900,000 brought by Geerge H. Robinson, a broker, against Alba B. Johnson, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

titled to a commission for the sale of the Baldwin Locomotive Works because he got Mr. Schiff to make an offer for the purchase of the plant on highly favorable terms before the company sold the plant to the syndicate.

Mr. Schiff said he was surprised and indignant when he learned of the sale.
"In all our banking career," said Mr. Schiff, "we have never had another experience of that kind."

Schiff Tells of Negotiations.

Mr. Schiff described how in the spring of 1910 the negotiations with him were opened by Mr. Robinson. He said there opened by Mr. Robinson. The said there was a distinct understanding when the negotiations were opened that they were not to be terminated without the mutual consent of both parties. Mr. Schiff said his last offer was $25,000,000 cash and ,000,000 common stock in the reorgan-

"All, or any of it, upon the same terms agreed to by the other members of the syndicate," said Mr. Schiff.

When the negotiations were first begun, he said, Mr. Johnson was unable to prove to his satisfaction that the company had earned an average of 10 per cent. for the past ten years and the negotiations were then terminated. Mr. Schiff's first offer was withdrawn, with the understanding, he said, that if the company again tried to find a purchaser on different terms Mr. Schiff was to be notified.

He said that he secured a loan of $10,000,000 on a bond issue of the Baldwin company and that this money tided win company and that this money tided the company over until April, 191. Then, Mr. Schiff said, he heard rumors that the company was again planning to sell out.

Says Johnson Sent Assurance.

Mr. Robinson called upon him at that time, he said, and informed him that Mr. Johnson had sent him to assure Mr. Schiff that he still had the first opportunity to buy the company. Then the financier described a conference at which Mr. Johnson produced a blue silp of paper which guaranteed Mr. Robinson in case the negotiations were successful.

Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. invited his firm to participate in the syndicate, Mr. Schiff said, and he added that the friendliest relations existed between his firm and J. P. Morgan & Co. and that they frequently gave each other advice on business matters.

Mr. Schiff said that Mr. Johnson was so anxious that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. should be satisfied that he contributed $380,000 worth of his own stock to make the share of Mr. Schiff sirm could be share of Mr. Schiff said that Mr. Johnson was so any sould be share of Mr. Schiff said that Mr. Johnson was so any sould be share of Mr. Schiff said that Mr. Johnson was so any sould be shar

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Jan. 20 .- It is not true after all that the first day's trip of a continuous walk from end to end of the Catskill aqueduct (115 miles) is either the most interesting, the most instructive or the most tiresome. The second day is, Two of the six reporters and onphotographer, all of whom started out merrily yesterday morning to walk the 115 miles were so tired and worn that they started this morning by train for New York. So it was a somewhat depleted party that limped out of the Lock Cliffe Hotel at High Falls this morning and met Engineer Pop Russ, who lifted each man into a bob sleigh and drove off toward Shaft 8 of the Rondout division.

The entrance to Shaft 8, like all other entrances to the aqueduct, is a manhole lost in a desolation of snow and hills. Into this the four men went to climb down a handsome copper ladder twenty feet to the bottom of the aqueduct. Back of them was a long syphon and in front the two and a half mile long Bonticou tunnel, which has been bored under Bonticou crag in the Shawangunk Mountains, which are composed of nothing is, the reporters knew this because Pop Russ told them so. At the end of the tunnel the party went up for air, through a manhole again, and there met Samuel Thompson, engineer in charge of the Wallkill division, who took them in charge for the remainder of the day.

With Mr. Thompson the reporters the official letter book of his office. It descended again into the aqueduct, after had been written to Patrick A. Occasionally the small streams of water flowing at the floor's centre widens or narrows. That is all—nothing else but gray cement tunnel, all immaculately

By short stages of walking and long stages of sleighing the party reached St. Elmo syphon, nineteen miles from the morning's starting point and thirty-two miles from the head of the aqueduct There they came up to find themselves within such inviting reach of Smith's grocery store that they stepped right it and sat down, wholly unable to move away. They intend to proceed to-morrow away.
